FICTION Summer Reading Choice Board

Along with reading a book from the summer reading list, choose THREE of the following activities and complete them (digitally or on paper) before the start of school.

All work should be original and each student's own creation.

(RL1) Quotable Quotations: As you read, choose at least 5 quotations from the book that are significant. Create illustrations (memes, cartoons, etc.) and include an inference, conclusion, or explanation about each.	(RL2) “The Message”: Identify at least 3 themes from the book and create an acronym for each theme. Include illustrations that match the message of each theme.	(RL3) Characterization: As you read, collect evidence about the characters to create a visual map of each character's traits or a web of multiple characters' relationships. Include page numbers with evidence.
(RL3) Plot: Create visual description of the book's plot elements using a comic strip, story board, etc. Label each picture with the correct plot element (exposition, rising action, climax, falling action, and resolution).	(RL4) Vocabulary: As you read, make a list of at least 10 words that you do not know or want to understand better. Include the quotation from the book with each word, the part of speech and definition and an illustration that represents the idea of each word.	(RL5) Style &amp; Structure: Identify, illustrate, and label at least 5 places where the author effectively uses text structure (cause/effect, problem/solution, compare/contrast, description, etc.).
(RL6) Point of View &amp; Purpose: Research the author to learn more about who they are and why they wrote the book. Create a transcript or video of an imaginary interview with them using this information. Include your sources.	(RL7) Other Media: After reading the print version of the book, re-create part of the book in another media format: make a movie trailer, make a 10-song playlist or soundtrack with explanations, make a 3-D model of the setting or characters, scrapbook, poster, etc.	(RL9) Text-to-Text: Compare and contrast the book with one or more other texts (books, movies, paintings, songs, etc.) and create a transcript or video or an imaginary conversation between characters from each text.

Summer Reading Response Packet

The reading response packet is designed for you to split your summer reading book into fourths. You are to complete a reading response form over each one-fourth of your book. Please make sure you indicate the pages read on the top of each reading response form. Just remember, this packet is to help you remember what you learned and be ready to discuss the book with your “book club.”

Bring a copy of the book the first two and a half weeks of school.

Name:

Book Title:

Reader Response 1

I read from page ___ to page ___. (First 1/4 of your book)

Vocabulary: As you read, write down 3 unfamiliar words and what you guess they mean based on what you read. (NOTE: These do not need to be words that completely stump you, just words that are new to you or that you are unfamiliar with. You MUST have 3 words, the sentence quoted from the book, and the dictionary definition filled in completely.) Write neatly.

	Word	How it is used in the text (write the sentence from the book)	Definition

Reader Response 4

I read from page ____ to page ____.(Last 1/4 of the novel)

Literary Element: Conflicts are challenges in the story between the main character(s) and other forces. Most good stories involve challenges that characters must face and attempt to overcome. Through challenges characters grow, typically gaining new knowledge and perspective by the end of their journey. A challenge can be any one of the following, and sometimes several at once: Person vs. Person; Person vs. Self; Person vs. Society; and/or Person vs. Nature. Give an example of a Conflict in the story. You may use any part of the book. Write neatly.

Quote (page #).	Opponent	Interpretation
Cite four specific examples of challenges faced by a major character(s). Include page number in parentheses.	Against what or whom did this character struggle? (Versus-a Person, Vs.- Circumstances, Vs.- Nature, Vs.-Society, Vs.- Self)	Explain how the citation outlines the two opponents in the challenge – the character and their opponent. What does it say about the main character involved?
